We are pleased to announce the establishment of a University Network, open to Jewish university students looking for an intellectually vibrant, compassionate, and inclusive Orthodox Judaism. We ask students to register online on our website, www.jewishideas.org, and be sure to check the box indicating "student." Students will receive free subscriptions to our journal, Conversations, and will also be able to participate in the University Network online discussion group.

The University Network will be under the direction of Ronda Angel Arking. We thank Institute supporters for making this project possible, so that this service can be provided to university students free of charge to them.
