Shalom and best wishes. I hope all is well and that your school year is going well. Through the generosity of several supporters of the Institute for Jewish Ideas and Ideals, we are able to offer students the following of my books at no charge. You may already have all or some of them; but if not, email me at mdangel@jewishideas.org and let me know the book/s you'd like, as well as your mailing address.

Maimonides: Essential Teachings on Jewish Faith and Ethics (an introduction to the thought of Maimonides; a translation of most of the Book of Knowledge and 13 Principles of Faith; and a running commentary.)

Maimonides, Spinoza and Us: Toward an Intellectually Vibrant Judaism (a study of basic themes in the writings of Rambam and Spinoza)

The Search Committee (a novel describing tensions between Hareidi and Modern Orthodox approaches to Judaism)

Angel for Shabbat (a collection of divrei Torah on the portions of the week and holidays)

Foundations of Sephardic Spirituality: The Inner Life of the Jews of the Ottoman Empire (a study of Judeo-Spanish civilization)

This offer is good until December 15, 2011. Shalom uvrakha.
